Hinson Thomas left a good job as bookkeeper at the O. D. Commercial company for a more lucrative lay-out in the sheriff's office. We congratulate Sheriff-elect Thompson on his selection for under-sheriff. We wish the office and its incumbents all kinds of good luck during the next two years.

Dr. Feagles, the veteran mining man formerly of Grant county, New Mexico, came in from Pinto this week, where he has extensive properties. He, his son and Tom Reynolds have a group of six claims in that district which the doctor, after a lifetime of experience in such matters, declares to be the finest surface showing he ever saw.

Foundren & Tooms are shipping from the Proctor, bonded by them from Crosby. This is their largest shipment, consisting of 31 tons, now in El Paso. They have shipped three lots, running respectively 18, 19 and 23 per cent, sampled in Globe. They propose to take up the bond, having cleared enough in a few months to pay for the property. Mr. McAfee has recently discovered and located two claims in the same locality, which shows good ore bodies running 25 per cent copper. Richard Welch was taking out some excellent ore on his well known properties when last heard from.—Times.

Health in the Pines.

Kinney's Rheumatic and Kidney Remedy—"K. R. K. R."—an infallible remedy for rheumatism, diseases of the kidneys and bladder, sciatica and heart trouble. A California remedy, composed of the pure, essential oils of the buds of our forest trees, pines, etc., together with the extract of a plant healing in its nature, clear as crystal, chemically pure, small doses given quick relief, and, in most cases, a radical and final cure.

The healing medicinal properties of these buds are wonderful. Taken internally, this remedy will expel the poison urea, uric acid and vitiated phosphatic salts, the causes of rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sciatica and inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart, or heart trouble. Will prevent the change of the pure constituents of the urine into the poison sediments; stop the production of albumen, the cause of Bright's disease; will expel the saccharine matter, the cause of diabetes; stop the pain in the back and sciatic nerves; heal and allay irritation and inflammation of the kidneys and urinary passage; rectify incontinence and retention of urine, prostatic trouble; eliminate the calculus sand and gravel and stop their further production.

The ever increasing sales of this remedy throughout California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Arizona, Montana and so many states east is evidence of its genuine merit.

Price $1.25 per bottle (60 days treatment), sent by mail or express in metal case. Enclose 25 cents in stamps for trial bottle (10 days treatment) sent by mail.

The United Moderns organized a lodge in Bisbee on Wednesday night with a membership of about 30. On account of the holidays some of the members were out of town and a few others were working on night shift, therefore the attendance was light; but sufficient to complete the organization. The following officers were elected and installed: Eugene Fisher, Chancellor; Mrs. Laurilla De Wald, Past Chancellor; S. J. Baker, Regent; Frank Johnson, Orator; Mrs. Henrietta Fisher, Financier and Recorder. The plans of the United Moderns seem to meet the wants of the intelligent classes both in a social and protective way as is demonstrated by the large lodges organized in every town and hamlet visited by the organizers.

Mrs. C. M. Johnson will give lessons in embroidery, Kensington and Battenberg, on Saturday's from 2 to 4 p. m. Tyler house, Bisbee. nol4 1m

FRED HUGHES' CHRISTMAS GIFT.

He Leaves the Penitentiary On a Parole.

The most valuable and most highly appreciated gift presented to any man in Arizona was received by Fred Hughes, a resident of the territorial penitentiary for the last two years and a half.

The parole was signed by Governor Murphy before he took his departure for the East, with the direction that it be sent to the penitentiary so that it would arrive there the day before Christmas.

It has been issued on a petition, with a list of names attached constituting almost a city directory of Tucson, a census of Pima and Santa Cruz counties with an addendum embracing the names of perhaps a large majority of the men in the territory prominent in public life.

The petition contained the representation in the first place, that Hughes was of advanced age, about 68; that his health was broken and that a large family, consisting of a wife and a dozen children was dependent upon him for support. This petition was re-inforced by the fact that the prisoner had been a model one, and that from the beginning he had realized the depth of his fall and been truly penitent. Still further back was the sentimental fact that he was one of the pioneers of Arizona, not one of those who came here in an early day, acquired holdings of worthless sagebrush and almost equally worthless so-called town property, which they watched grow into value mainly through the enterprise of their neighbors. Fred Hughes had fought Indians, had taken long and dangerous journeys, not for himself, but for Arizona. He had, in several legislatures, assisted in making the laws of the territory, and within a year preceding his conviction of embezzlement, had occupied the highest position in the legislative department of Arizona—president of the territorial council.

The crime of which he was convicted was the embezzlement of the funds of the Pioneer or Historical society, for which a special appropriation had been made by that same legislature. He was made president of the society, for no one, by reason of priority of residence or ability, was more qualified.

He was at the same time, and had been for years, the clerk of the Board of Supervisors of Pima county. He is accused and even indicted for a misappropriation of county funds, but it is not likely that he will be prosecuted under these indictments, for since his incarceration these crimes have been swallowed up in the memory of Hughes' usefulness.

Hughes' downfall was gambling. He had been an inveterate reckless gambler for many years, but only until within a year or two before his trouble had he ever risked any money but his own.

The parole does not cut off much of the original sentence, for deducting from it the time allowed for good behavior, he would not have had much longer to serve.

The Governor also caused a parole to be issued to John Smoot, sent from Coconino county for manslaughter. He had killed a man under circumstances which were more or less mitigating. The petition for Smoot's parole was signed by almost everybody of influence in the county. It was further represented that Smoot was of a good family and had hitherto led a blameless life.

Ramon Orozco, under sentence from Cochise county, for burglary in the second degree, was pardoned by Acting Governor Akers.—Republican.

Christmas Tree Presbyterian Church.

The Library Hall was filled to the doors Christmas eve, with the children of the Sabbath school, their parents and friends. A beautiful tree, reaching to the ceiling, had been loaded with presents and sacks of candies for the scholars. At 8 o'clock the Rev. J. G. Pritchard, superintendent, opened the exercises, which consisted of a few musical numbers, the reading of Scripture by the pastor, and the announcement of an expected visit from Santa Claus. With the jingling of sleigh bells, the familiar face of Santa appeared at the door, and his packs were emptied at the base of the tree. For an hour the teachers were busy distributing and receiving presents. Over two hundred gifts were distributed and candy, nuts and oranges were also provided for each one. Mr. and Mrs. Pritchard were surprised with a presentation from appreciative friends, and all hearts were made glad on this eve of the anniversary of the Savior's birth. Three new classes are to be organized in the Sabbath school with the beginning of the New Year.
